

Hello, my name is Sarah Rowe and I am thrilled to be back and teaching in my hometown. I have been teaching Art in North Conway, New Hampshire for the last six years and was a one-to-one aid for four years prior.

I graduated from Plymouth State University with a Bachelor of Science in the Visual Arts and came certified to teach Art Education grades K-12.

My husband Jesse and I have two children Nolan and Norah. We are both excited to be back home and closer to both our families.

When I am not teaching, spending time with my family or creating, I enjoy baking or reading a good book as well as being outside in nature.

I look forward to what this school year will bring and am looking forward to building relationships and getting to know my students, fellow staff and getting back into the Augusta community.
